Torrance Musicians In Battle of Bands

Ninety-two teenage musicians, some of them Hollywood Bowl bound, will compete at the Compton High School preliminaries of the "Battle of the Bands" March 30, at 8 p.m.

Winners of the preliminaries will appear in the 4th annual Battle of the Bands finals on June 28.

The Compton semi-finals, a two-hour program of light, popular, and jazz arrangements featuring young singers and instrumentalists from Southwest and Southeast Los Angeles, is open to the public. Admission is 50 cents.

TEENAGERS who will be spotlighted at Compton High School include the Morningside High School Band, vocalist Robert Gant Jr., the Modern Jazz Technicians, and vocalist Sal Ioele of Los Angeles; the Bellflower High School Band, Long Beach Polytechnic High School Band, and vocalist Joyce Fukuhara of Long Beach. Also slated to appear are the Continental Jazz Quintet of Redondo Beach, the La Mirada High School Band, the Mayfair High School Band of Lakewood, the Esquires of Gardena, the Imperials of Torrance, and vocalist Tina Edmondson of Lawndale.

"MUSIC IS one of America's greatest contributions to western culture," states Supervisor Kenneth Hahn. "The young people who annually participate in the Battle of the Bands may very likely be the ones who carry on this tradition—the opportunity to play in the Hollywood Bowl is an incentive to further their appreciation and understanding of music." Finalists who appear in the Bowl production, which is expected to be televised locally, will be selected by John Tynan, West Coast editor of "Downbeat" magazine; Gordon Jenkins Jr., of the Hollywood Bowl; and Robert Fisher and Robert McDonald, instructors at East Los Angeles College and Los Angeles Valley College, respectively.

Experience No Guarantee For Motorist

Experience is a great teacher—but in driving, experience alone is no guarantee of safety, California Highway Patrol Commissioner Bradford M. Crittenden said.

"During 1961 for instance, about three-fourths of the drivers involved in fatal accidents had been operating a motor vehicle for six years or more, and more than half for about 11 years.

"Most of these drivers assuredly had developed the necessary physical coordination to handle a vehicle. Many of them had experienced the normal frustrations and difficulties of driving. Yet they were involved in a fatal accident.

"Perhaps a brief distraction, a moment's carelessness, or the failure to observe a law projected them into this disastrous situation. "Experience cannot be the only key to safe driving. Constant awareness, conscious action to minimize every potential hazard, and unrelenting compliance with law — these are the tools of the driver who avoids accidents," the commissioner said.
